OBITUARY.

CHARLES H. BASSETT.

Charles H. Bassett was born at Ossian, Allegany county, New York, March 14, 1828. Thrown upon his own resources at an early age, he took the teacher's examination and began teaching school at the age of fifteen. At seventeen he went with his parents to Nauvoo, where he subsequently mayried; and with the exception of teaching at his old New York home the following winter, he remained at Nauvoo until the saints were driven out of the city. He took part in the battle of Nauvoo, and bravely defended the people against the mob.

Going to Council Bluffs, he clerked in a store there, in addition to doing efficient missionary service, and saved enough money to emigrate to Utah with his family in 1852. He followed merchandising in Salt Lake City, making the trip by team via Los Angeles to San Francisco, to purchase goods, On his return he brought a branch of an orange tree with the ripe fruit, the first oranges to come to Utah. In the early sixties he formed a partnership with Bolivar Roberts, conducting a merchandising business on south Main street, afterward embarking in the hardware business. He is well remembered as one of the pioneer merchants of Salt Lake City.

It was necessary for him to make several business trips east, to purchase goods. On such occasions he had to carry big sums of money in gold. At carry big sums of money in gold. At these times his coolness and gentlemanly bearing stood him in good stead. At one time he had $15,000 nailed up in a box. At one place, through the miscalculation of a hotel porter, the box was sent on one day ahead of its custodian. He assumed an air of indifference, and awaited the next train. Twenty-four hours later, he arrived at the station where the box had been put off, and strolling leisurely but watchfully along the platform, he saw the precious burden tumbled about among had doubtless saved him a heavy loss; but the money was sent by express the remainder of the way. On another oc-remainder of the way. On another oc-casion he narrowly escaped assassina-tion at the hands of Indians.

During the latter part of his life, Mr.
Bassett has acted as confidential clerk-and bookkeeper for a number of busi-ness men, and the last position held by him was that of bookkeeper at the Bishop's general store house. In all fils business relationships he was scrupu-lously exact and honest and thoroughly reliable; and his gentlemanly and re-fined bearing attracted and retained a host of friends. One of the treasured reliable; and his gentlemanly and refined bearing attracted and retained a host of friends. One of the treasured heirlooms of the family is a set of walnut furniture made by Mr. Bassett from ox yokes used in crossing the plains.

In Church work he was active and earnest. For many years he was in the council of the Tenth quorum of seventy; and during the last two years of his life he was a member of the high priests' quorum of the Liberty stake of Zion. He was a consistent Latter-day Saint, living the laws of the gospel honestly and strictly. He leaves a large and respected family of children, grandchildren, and greatgrandchildren, living in various parts of Utah and Idaho; and the heritage of a good name which he has left behind is held in highest esteem by them and by his numerous friends.

The death of C. H. Bassett occurred on Tuesday, Feb. 26, 1907, the cause being general debility. The funeral services were held in the Second ward meetinghouse on Friday, March 1, commencing at 11 a. m. The music was peculiarly beautiful and appropriate, consisting of the solo, "The Vacant Chair," by Miss Enid Edmunds; the selection, "We Need Thee Every Hour," by the ward quartet; the solo, "Sometime We'll Understand," by Robert Siddoway, and the hymn, "O My Father," by Lizzle Thomas-Edward, Eulogistic and consoling remarks were made by Elders Willard Done and Joseph Keddington, President Joseph F. Smith and Bishop Heber C. Iverson. The opening and clesing prayers were offered by Elders Joseph W. McMurrin and Seymour B. Young respectively, and the grave at the cemetery was dedicated by Eishop James Jensen.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY | IS BOTH AGREEABLE AND

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no superior for coughs, colds and croup, and the fact that it is pleasant to take and contains nothing in any way injurious has made it a favorite with mothers. Mr. W. S. Pelham, a merchant of Kirksville, Iowa, says: "For more than twenty years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been my leading remedy for all throat troubles. It is especially successful in cases of croup. Children like it any my customers who have used it will not take any other." For sale by all druggists.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

My wholesale grocery business have ng gained such proportions as to de-nand my undivided attention. I have withdrawn from active participation in the retail line.

In the retail line.

The Retail Grocery Store at 267-269
South Main Street, has been incorporated by a firm of local lusiness men, including myself. And on and after March 4th, will be known as the UNITED GROCERY COMPANY.

This new company will be under the management of J. N. Smith; the same as has been my store for the post three. as has been my store for the past three years.

The policy of the new company is to conduct a first-class business, supplying its patrons with the best the market affords, and giving prompt and efficient service. To this end, many improvements will be installed.

I thank now former patrons for their trade, and solicit a continuance of their paronage for the new company.

W. S. HENDERSON.

The New York Life Insurance company publishes its sixty-second annual report today. Sixty-two years ago, on April 10, it began the life insurance business on the purely mutual plan, without capital stock or stock-holders. It ends its sixty-second calendar year with over two thousand million dollars of insurance on its books, and with over four hundred and seventy-four millions of accumulated funds. For the security of its outstanding policies and other liabilities the State requires it to have on hand four hundred and twelve and a half millions. The dividend to policy-holders, declared for 1997, is over six millions, and the balance is set aside for future dividends and other purposes. The amount of new business for 1906 was $167,009,000, which is the largest amount written by one company. The income for the year exceeds one hundred million dollars, and payments to policy-holders were over forty-five millions. The company has paid polloy-holders since organization over tive hundred and forty million dollars. Its report for 1906 shows a largely rededed expense rate. its report for 1906 shows a largely re-
